Mining company gets mixed report

RIO TINTO, the mining company, has improved its social, environmental, and ethical performance, but still has serious issues to address, says Rio Tinto - Revising the Principles: A decade of corporate responsibility reviewed, from the Ecumenical Council for Corporate Responsibility. The company's reputation is most at risk because of its mine in West Papua, Indonesia, and in Madagascar, says the report, available from ECCR at PO Box 500, Oxford OX1 1ZL; phone 01865 245349; email iinfo@eccr.org.uk.
